Norbury Primary School

Results of National Tests and Teacher Assessments for the School Year Ending July 2023

When reading results, it is important to remember that in small schools, one child can represent a large percentage of the group. We value all children's contributions to our school and welcome children with special educational or complex needs. All children are included in the data, regardless of their needs, unless they are dis-applied from the national curriculum. There are no children at Norbury Primary School who fall into this category.

We are delighted to share with you, the results of national tests and assessments for our previous academic year. We are very proud of all of our children, no matter how highly they score in tests. As long as they are doing the best that they can at all times, that is all we will ever ask. Whilst our results are important to us, development of children in all aspects of their lives is our fundamental aim. Well done to all. You will see that in some areas we fall significantly above national averages and in some areas below. Please bear in mind that cohorts are very small in our school.

In the tables below, information is contained about the attainment of children at key points during their education. As always, when viewing data shown in percentages, it is important to recognise that in small year groups, one child can represent a very significant percentage. It is also important to recognise that all children, including those with special educational needs or disabilities sit the same tests and that their results are shown within the data. We always strive for children to achieve their potential and be well prepared for high school at the end of Year Six. However, as children progress at different rates, some children may not achieve the national expectation, but it is still important that we recognise and celebrate their efforts and progress and ensure that the appropriate levels of support are in place for them to continue their progress in Year Seven. We work very closely with their individual high schools to give the best possible support at all times.

We have tried to give as much explanation of the data as possible, but should you require any additional information or wish to discuss it further, please do not hesitate to contact us.

Foundation Stage

The national measure for attainment at this stage is known as "Good Level of Development" (GLD). This is the combined Foundation Stage Profile scores for the core areas of learning relating to communication and language; physical development; personal, social and emotional development; literacy; and mathematics.

We are delighted with our results from across the school. They are a celebration of the hard work of our pupils, teaching staff and of our partnerships with parents. We are aware that some of the results demonstrate that a small number of our younger children are not yet working at the levels that we would have expected pre-covid and we are working to support these children to fully achieve their potential.

We know our children really well and some of our greatest success stories are often of children who may not reach the expected standard at the end of a key stage, but who have worked incredibly hard to overcome specific difficulties to achieve the best results that they can. A huge well done to all.
